THE WOOLMARK COMPANY AND THE INDIAN SUBCONTINENT

The Woolmark Company has worked in India for more than 50 years. In this time, we have witnessed the growth of and changes in the textile industry and economy of this region. Throughout the years, we have worked with multiple partners in many stages of the wool supply chain, from early-stage processors, spinners, weavers and knitters through to brands and retailers. Our work in this country extends to education, research and development, and the marketing of Merino wool to ensure its ongoing place in the textile industry and growing consumer market.

India has consistently been amongst the top three importers and processors of Australian wool. Today we have more than 100 supply chain partners there, ranging from education institutions, manufacturers, retailers, exporters, designers and trade bodies. We have been a part of India's journey from a manufacturing hub to being a consumer market as well. India also holds our second highest number of Woolmark supply chain licensees in the world and this is a testament to the ongoing quality and capacity of wool products being manufactured there.

The steady growth of the Bangladesh textile sector increased our awareness of this market more than a decade ago. In 2020, we realigned our strategy to include Bangladesh as an emerging market for wool. We believe there is potential for more wool production in this market within the flat bed knitting and circular knitting industries. We look to increase our reach in this region and to help our supply chain partners see the benefits of working with Merino wool.

Sri Lanka is the country in the region into which we have most recently entered. Movement of the world's consumers towards casual and athleisure wear with performance driven textiles has given significant advantage to this country. Merino wool is being explored by various manufacturers here along with support from The Woolmark Company to cater to the needs of global sportswear brands.

INDIA

India is the largest country by area and economy size in the subcontinent region. The textile industry is one of the oldest industries of the Indian economy. The sector is almost 7% of India's manufacturing output, 4% of GDP and 14% of exports. It is the 3rd largest textile and apparel exporter in the world. India is also the 2nd largest importer of Australian raw wool.

A leader in the natural fibre-based industry, India has a positive outlook towards sustainability in fashion and strengthening the wool supply chain for global audiences. India not only has a supply chain of quality spinners, weavers, knitters (circular and flat) and garment makers, but also has a strong base of handloom and handknitting, craft and artisans, and natural dyeing techniques.

India has been a go-to destination for brands, designers and buyers as it possesses the entire manufacturing value chain, from fibre to apparel, and provides the distinct advantage of backward integration.

Recent developments like easing international investment processes, signing exclusive international trade agreements, approval of integrated textile parks and production-linked incentive schemes have made the Indian market competitive on cost and quality.

Jaya Shree Textiles is a part of Aditya Birla Group, a USD 48.5 billion global conglomerate and Fortune 500 company. It has a long heritage of manufacturing and supplying worsted yarn and wool tops globally since 1949. Its strategic location near Kolkata port and airport (eastern India) offers a unique logistic advantage (speed) for the import of raw materials and export of final product.

Jaya Shree is one of the largest buyers of Australian wool in the region, with more than 9000 MT of raw wool in the micron range of 14 to 29. There are different manufacturing lines for different microns which ensure the best quality wool product.

The company has a great commitment towards sustainability through investment in zero-liquid-discharge, energy conservation through solar power, conservation of the local environment by preserving water bodies, bringing back green cover in the locality, rural development initiatives, promotion of recycled/bio-degradable synthetic materials where necessary, in addition to its two major raw materials – wool and linen.

The processes of Jaya Shree comply with almost all-important standards, namely Oekotex 100 (class 1), GOTS, RWS, EU Eco label, GRS, Woolmark, ISO 50001, ISO 45001, SA 8000, OHSAS 18001, etc.

“Jaya Shree has been the preferred yarn partner in all projects of The Woolmark Company like Wool Runway and designer collaborations.”

OSWAL WOOLLEN MILLS

Oswal Woollen Mills (OWM) was established in 1949 by Mr. Vidya Sagar Oswal. It is the largest producer of worsted woollen yarn in the country and operates under the brand name of OWM. OWM is the flagship company of Nahar Group which is a USD 1.3 billion company.

The Group comprises four major companies: Nahar Industrial Enterprise, Nahar Spinning Mills, Oswal Woollen Mills and Monte Carlo Fashion.

OWM's manufacturing is spread across Ludhiana, Punjab with the latest machinery and testing facilities. The production capacity currently is at 27 MT per month in the count range of 3nm to 120nm. The company specialises in top making, worsted spinning of both machine knitting and hand knitting, fancy yarns and lamb's wool. The capacity of its wool comber is at 4000 tons p.a. and the product ranges from 13.5 to 28 microns.

They are a certified Woolmark licence holder and member of IWTO. The Woolmark Company has been consistently working with OWM in knowledge transfer and activities to connect to the market.

OCM was registered in 1924 in Amritsar, Punjab. Worsted business began during World War 2 primarily to supply fabric to defence. In 1972, it forayed into manufacturing worsted fabrics for the Indian and overseas markets.

Today, OCM has fully integrated production facilities - dyeing, spinning, weaving and finishing, under one roof. It is the second largest manufacturer of quality worsted fabrics in the country, with an employee base of more than 1500 people, working relentlessly towards achieving customer satisfaction.

To ensure the premise of 'quality fabrics', the OCM Quality Assurance Laboratory has successfully obtained accreditation from NABL – National Accreditation Body for Testing and Calibration.

OCM's 37-acre manufacturing facility in Amritsar, Punjab is equipped with new generation technology and machinery. The company has the capacity to manufacture 6.5 million metres of fabric annually with 135 looms. The single roof facility for the fibre-to-fabric process gives it the competitive edge.

OCM has not only achieved gold standards in India for tweed and flannel fabric but also produces fine fabrics like Super 120/140/180 wool.

BANGLADESH

Bangladesh has emerged as a powerful garment manufacturing country in the past decade and is the world's second-largest Ready Made Garment (RMG) exporter, just behind China. The textile and apparel sector contributes to about 20% of Bangladesh's GDP. Currently, the largest export destination of RMG from Bangladesh is the United States accounting for around 22% of exports whilst the EU is second followed by Canada and the UK.

With a large capacity for knitwear and an industry movement towards producing more technical garments, Bangladesh is a growing source of traditional wool knitwear for many big-name brands around the world that have established sourcing offices there.

SRI LANKA

Sri Lanka's apparel export industry is one of the largest contributors to the economy. The industry has recorded significant growth during past decades and is currently the country's leading export. Sri Lanka has built its competitive edge on value-addition rather than cheap production costs, with a greater emphasis on product quality and its ability to manufacture niche products. Sri Lanka has also gained a reputation as an ethical sourcing hub.

Known as an important destination for knitted sportswear manufacturing and innovations within the textile industry, some of the biggest sportswear brands have been sourcing from here for their US and EU markets. Wool is new to the textile industry here with dependence on India or China for yarn sourcing. But due to the availability of the latest knitting technology, wool for casual and sportswear is making an entry in this region.

MAS FABRICS (PVT) LTD – MATRIX

MAS Fabrics – Matrix is the part of MAS holding group which is the largest apparel and textile manufacturer in South Asia. The group is one of the world's most recognised design-to-delivery solution providers in the realm of the apparel and textile manufacturing. The organisation is headquartered in Sri Lanka with 52 manufacturing facilities across 17 countries.

MAS Fabrics – Matrix is part of MAS Fabric Park situated in Thulhiriya in Sri Lanka. This park is Sri Lanka's first privately owned apparel intensive free trade zone. Established in 2013, MAS Fabrics – Matrix is a new business entity of MAS and forms one part of the MAS Fabric Alliance, MAS's strategic ecosystem. Matrix is the largest advanced knit technology centres in the region dedicated to manufacturing revolutionary knitted components. The facility has a dedicated secured knitwear division to produce Nike's FlyKnit.

The facility has 240 knitting machines in 10GG, 190 machines in 14GG and 165 machines in 18GG. Along with this, it has linking machines in 14GG and 16GG. The total capacity stands at 4 million units per year.

The company is actively involved in exploring innovations in knitting technology and knitted footwear. It has the ability to create hybrid shoes which combine knit upper components and laminated skins.

HANDLOOM, HANDKNIT & NATURAL DYES – INDIA

India has been a popular destination for sourcing handmade textile products due to its rich heritage and knowledge of various crafts and techniques. Many of these handmade textiles are made of natural fibres and have a slow production process, which makes them a cherished artisan product.

The export of handloom products from India was valued at USD 319 million for FY21.

Most of the artisans have been working with cotton or coarse wool due to easy local availability. During the past few years, The Woolmark Company has been working with some handloom clusters to educate them on the use of fine Merino wool which would bring more value to their efforts.

Due to the varied geographic and climatic conditions, India has a rich availability of natural dye raw materials using plant extracts. Recently, The Woolmark Company has also started working with natural dye organisations to improve the quality of naturally dyed Merino wool using innovative and sustainable techniques.

HANDLOOM BHUTTI WEAVERS CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY LTD.

Bhuttico is one of the oldest Indian cooperative weaving societies, having a long-standing relationship of more than 50 years with Australian Merino wool.

The society was set up in 1944 by 12 progressive handloom weavers in a remote village in the northern hills of India. Later, Mr. Ved Ram Thakur was motivated to join this cooperative and he transformed a small society into an active institution. Today, Bhuttico is a leading name in the shawl industry and its weavers have earned respect and recognition from the rest of the weaving world. There are over 131 employees who are from amongst the weavers' families.

The total production capacity today is 7.6 tons of wool fabric or 25,398 pcs of finished product.

“Bhuttico has worked on designer collaboration projects with The Woolmark Company and has delivered exceptional quality fabrics in unique weaving patterns and techniques.”

HANDLOOM & NATURAL DYEING KUMAON EARTHCRAFT SELF-RELIANT COOPERATIVE

“The textiles produced by Earthcraft have been awarded the UNESCO Seal of Excellence and Earthcraft has been showcased as a sustainable fashion brand at the Ethical Fashion Forum in London.”

Kumaon Earthcraft Cooperative began in 2005, as an initiative by its parent NGO, Avani. Nestled in the central Himalayan ranges of Uttarakhand, the cooperative focuses on developing rural livelihood opportunities through the revival of traditional handloom crafts.

The cooperative is spread over seven centres across different, often very remote, villages in the Kumaon region of Uttarakhand. Earthcraft works only with natural fibres and yarns, like silk, linen, local wool and 100% Merino wool.

From yarn spinning to weaving, and dyeing using locally cultivated plants to create an end product, Earthcraft has a full production line, spread over its many village centres.

Several species of local plants and trees provide dye materials, as well as the natural soap (from the soapnut tree) with which they wash and care for their textiles. Plants grown by local farmers and used as dye materials include marigold, eupatorium, walnut, pomegranate and indigo.

NATURAL DYES

BIODYE INDIA PRIVATE LIMITED

BioDye was incorporated in 2007 and was set up in Sawantwadi, Maharashtra. The organisation uses a range of dye-yielding plants local to the area.

BioDye is a 100% natural dye house that uses plant matter, and non-toxic and biodegradable ingredients to colour textiles in a wide range of hues, shades and tints with the products having a market-acceptable fastness rating.

Being a zero-waste unit in a rural area, they have established a circular production model of cultivating plants, producing dyes, dyeing the textiles, preparing compost from the spent material, treating the spent water and using the spent material to grow the plants.

BioDye has caught the attention of some of the renowned designers from across the world like Oyyo from Sweden, Botanica Tinctoria and Maiwa from Canada, Industry of All Nations and Seek Collective from the USA.
